BOOK OF LISTS INFORMS, INSTRUCTS ON LOCAL ECONOMY

Think of it as a master class on the region's economy.

The Book of Lists, published by BizWest Media LLC, represents a special edition of our monthly business journal, providing a wealth of information on thousands of companies and individuals in the Boulder Valley and Northern Colorado.

Want information on the competition? Check out our rankings of companies in dozens of industries to see how your business stacks up with others in your industry.

Interested in learning more about potential vendors? Examine our lists to see how they compare with competitors, who key contacts are, etc.

Seeking information on potential employers? What better resource could you find than a publication that identifies thousands of companies by number of employees, revenue or some other factor?

Want to identify the fastest-growing private companies in the region? We've done that work for you, with our Mercury 100 lists, ranked by two-year revenue growth.

We work hard to produce this data throughout the year, updating addresses, key contacts, revenue, employee numbers and many other data points. These updates take into account companies that have added workers or reduced their workforce, moved to a new location, changed their name, etc.

Our lists range from the banking sector to health care, technology to business services, and many others.

This year, we've added several new lists, including our first ranking of private offerings, providing data on companies that filed Form Ds with the U.S. Securities & Exchange Commission during 2018.

Our hospital lists now include total patient revenue and other data, courtesy of the Colorado Hospital Association and the American Hospital Directory.

The Book of Lists represents a year-long research effort and includes many lists with combined rankings for Boulder, Broomfield, Larimer and Weld counties. In some cases, however, we've opted to publish separate lists for the Boulder Valley and Northern Colorado.

The Book of Lists compiles all of the lists that have been published in our paper in 2018, along with some that were newly researched or updated for this edition. Listings include addresses, phone numbers, key contacts, descriptions of products and services, revenues and employment.

Readers can also view the Book of Lists online, using our digital edition, or purchase the data in comma-delimited format.

See an intriguing company in the Book of Lists? Find out more about it by searching articles on our website at www.bizwest.com. Did we miss your company, or does your listing require an update? Email us at research@bizwest.com.

Class is in session. Don't forget to study up!

BUSINESS ANSWERS TO PRESSING B2B MATTERS

PAYROLL & WORKFORCE SERVICES

Employee Theft

Employee time theft is a serious crime and occurs when an employee gets paid for time or work they did not do. If you pay a full-time employee $20 per hour, and they steal ten minutes every day, that employee costs you $869 per year in stolen time. If you have 30 employees, time theft costs you a little more than $26,000 per year.

Examples of Employee Theft

- Incorrect time – rounding up or logging commute time
- Punching time cards for co-workers
- Long lunches and extended breaks that aren't decreasing time reported
- Goofing off like excessive water cooler talk or doing personal things
- Internet browsing related to personal things and not work
- Time card excuses – forgetting to punch in and out

Melissa Clary
Owner

Let Employees Know Stealing Time is a Crime

- Inform employees of rules
- Set expectations
- Follow disciplinary procedures
- Set good examples

Steps to Prevent Employee Theft

- Use biometric time clock systems
- Screen employees' personal and financial background
- Watch employees from a distance
- Restrict unauthorized websites

High-tech time and attendance software makes it easy to track when employees clock in and out, as well as where they are recording time. One of the most common forms of time theft is buddy punching, which occurs when one employee clocks in or out for another employee who is not present. Also, employees traveling to job sites will clock in while driving to the job or won't clock out until they get home. Cutting-edge time keeping technology allows organizations to confirm the identity of the employee and their physical location.

At Payroll Vault we are awesome at processing payroll and we provide services such as bio-metric time-keeping systems and/or software as well as background and credit checks, to help you avoid employee time theft. If you need more information, please feel free to contact me.

TECHNOLOGY

7 Reasons to Outsource Your IT Function

The IT Outsourcing Statistics 2017/2018 study from Computer Economics found that organizations are committing to outsourcing IT at the highest rate since the Great Recession. So why the move to outsource IT, and what are the benefits driving this trend?

1. Reduce Costs

Cutting and controlling costs is one of the most common reasons businesses choose to outsource. Utilizing an outside technology partner can help you cut capital costs. More importantly, outsourcing will often reduce labor costs since you don't employ, hire or train the IT employees.

2. Reduce Risk

Markets, technology, compliance and regulatory requirements change rapidly, and there's high risk involved in managing this internally. A trusted IT services partner can assume and manage much of the risk associated with today's technology environment. An outsourced expert will have the knowledge to make informed decisions, provide your business with proper technologies, and ensure risk is reduced.

3. Scalability

Instead of wasting time and money on experimenting, you can leverage an efficient service. Outsourcing might make sense when you're considering expansion, and IT operations cannot keep up with the pace of growth.

4. Access to the Latest Technology

Software and hardware rapidly become obsolete. Outsourcing gives you the benefit of leveraging the technology and tools of the IT service provider that you would otherwise spend thousands of dollars to acquire.

5. Access to Talent

The value received in exchange for dollars invested in IT is often higher when you outsource to an IT services firm. Instead of the knowledge of individual employees, you benefit from the collective experience of a team of professionals. Leading IT service providers require their staff to have proper industry training and certifications.

6. Efficiency and Focus

Businesses should consider outsourcing what is not a core competency of the company. Organizations can enhance their IT service by outsourcing to an IT services firm. This allows them to put more focus on their business and keep their best people working on high impact initiatives.

7. Increased Employee Morale

Handled properly, outsourcing IT can increase employee morale. Offloading IT work lets employees focus on the jobs they were hired to do, while more reliable systems enable them to get more done.

Connecting Point specializes in assessing the potential benefits of outsourcing the IT function. Please contact us at 970-356-7224 to discuss the benefits for your company.

HEALTH CARE

Person-Centered Care at Columbine Health Systems

At Columbine Health Systems we believe our ability to provide quality care lies in our compassion and understanding of the people we care for. They are not the sum of their diagnosis; but are individuals who have had vastly different life experiences who are encouraged to view things through their own perspective.

Our Person-Centered Care Philosophy respects each resident, family member, and staff by:

- Knowing the unique and complete person both past and present.
- Valuing each person for their likes, dislikes, beliefs, interests and abilities then incorporating that information into their personal plan of care.
- Supporting independence and celebrating accomplishments.
- Promoting positive well-being to assist the person in experiencing joy and comfort through personal relationships and opportunities for meaningful activities.
- Honoring choice and individual differences.
- Enhancing dignity and respect.
- Empowering each staff member to work together through shared education, knowledge of preferences, routines, values, and abilities.
- Improving quality of life by promoting meaning in life.

Our Dementia Care Practice Philosophy adds these additional elements:

- Refer for diagnostic evaluation if Dementia is suspected.
- Recognize and accept the person's reality at any moment.
- Promote effective and empathetic communication which validates feelings.
- Expression of Need(s) includes various forms of communication; it is our responsibility to understand what they are trying to convey.
- Identify and support ongoing opportunities for meaningful engagement.
- Build and nurture authentic and caring relationships.
- Create and maintain a safe and supportive community for residents, families, and staff.
- Evaluate regularly care practices ensuring evidence-based models are emphasized.

In our 48th year, and as the largest locally owned and operated health care organization in Northern Colorado, we take seriously our continued opportunity to serve the community where we live, work, and play.

LAW

Business Owners – Are Personal Assets Safe?

Many business owners wisely own and operate their businesses in a "corporate form" meaning you have set up an entity to run the business, own the assets and take on liabilities. This could be a corporation, a limited liability company or a limited liability limited partnership. All of these entities are recognized by state law and specifically limit the liability of a company for its actions, debts, mistakes, etc. to the assets of the company only. In other words, if your company is sued or owes money and the company's assets are not enough to satisfy the judgment or debt, the creditor cannot come after the personal assets of the owner(s). This means that most of the time, you won't lose your house or other personal investments because of the liabilities of your business.

I use the phrase "most of the time" because many business owners do not always follow some important rules and practices and may be putting their personal assets at risk. The foundation of the "limited liability" of entities is that it has an existence SEPARATE from its owners. Its actions, assets, liabilities, etc. are its own, not simply an extension of its owner's actions and assets. This separate existence can be challenged by creditors when owners fail to treat their business as a separate entity from themselves. Using business assets for personal benefit is especially tempting with a business owned by one owner or related parties. Examples are using the business accounts to make house payments, paying for personal vacations, gifts or other expenses or obligations that are only for the personal benefit of the owners.

So while it may feel like the same pot of money to owners, it is important to remember that if owners want to protect their personal assets from creditors of the business, they must honor the separate existence of the business.

When it comes to outpatient procedures, ask your doctor if a surgery center is right for you.

“After having the same surgery twice in a hospital, our bills were enormous. When I was told I’d have to have the surgery a third time, we asked my doctor if there was a more affordable option. He suggested Surgery Center of Fort Collins. Our experience there was great... quality nurses, facility, and care. Most importantly, we saved thousands of dollars.”

Pain Management Options POST SURGERY

If you have undergone an outpatient surgery recently, you were likely faced with the decision of whether to take prescription or over-the-counter pain medication. One of the biggest concerns for patients is how they will control their pain after surgery. The American Society of Anesthesiologists (ASA) have been addressing our nation's rapidly growing crisis surrounding pain medicine and overuse of opioids. They recognize that patients are often uncomfortable and sore in the days following their procedure, but they know that relying on opioids for pain management is not the best strategy for most patients. Here are a few things to consider when deciding which pain management route is best for you:

Ask your doctor or surgeon for alternatives.

Opioids – commonly prescribed as Vicodin, Hydrocodone, Fentanyl, Codeine, Demerol, Oxycodone and Percocet – are suggested for patients in extreme pain. Ask your doctor or surgeon if over-the-counter medications like ibuprofen, naproxen or acetaminophen can effectively manage your post-surgery pain. While neither option is recommended for long-term use, over-the-counter medications are much less addictive and have fewer patient risks.

Listen to your body.

Most surgeries, if not all of them, come with some discomfort and soreness. These sensations can be alleviated with an average dose of ibuprofen. When patients move beyond the discomfort threshold and into severe pain, your body will send messages to your brain that you are in need of quicker relief. Pain can often be described as sharp, intense or extreme sensations that last for longer periods of time. Every person and every body will respond to pain and to medication differently. If you feel the need for strong medication, talk to your doctor about a prescription option.

Voice your concerns.

While resting in recovery, your care team will ask you to describe your pain level. Most recovery rooms will have a pain scale that helps you to rate how you are feeling. Be descriptive with what you are feeling and express any concerns you may have. The doctors and nurses are great sounding boards and will provide the best care – tailored to you. Most discomfort and pain will subside within a few days after surgery, with or without pain management.

Limit prescription pain medication.

In the event that you are in severe pain and are prescribed a pain killer, follow your doctor's prescribed dosage and use them sparingly. Most doctors will explain that the prescription is suggested when needed and not on a regular basis. You may also want to ask your doctor if the prescription can be taken in addition to or alternating with an over-the-counter pain medicine.

Be aware of other side effects.

The most commonly known side effect of opioid pain killers is that they can become addictive. Did you know that they can also cause severe constipation? Other side effects can include nausea, vomiting, low blood pressure, dizziness or drowsiness.

Overall, it is best to know that your pain will subside. A study from The American College of Surgeons shows "nine out of ten patients report that their pain is either mild or gone four days after surgery." Prescription pain medication can be useful and effective but is not necessary for every patient. Talk with your doctor and do your research before making a decision on what will work best for you and your body.

OVER 30 PHYSICIANS CELEBRATING 50 YEARS SPECIALIZING IN THE MEDICINE OF

motion

Orthopaedic & Spine Center of the Rockies (OCR) has been providing quality, specialty-focused care to the people of Colorado, Wyoming and Nebraska for 50 years and counting.

The founders of OCR began the clinic in 1969, using the name of Fort Collins Orthopedic Associates. Drs. Charles Collopy, Robert Johnson, Benedict Magsamen, and Douglas Murray came to Fort Collins separately in the 1960s, and after a few years in practice, they formed a partnership. The doctors were among the first orthopaedic specialists in the region and helped pioneer the development of patient care specialty.

Today OCR has over 30 specialized physicians providing care across three medical campuses in Fort Collins, Loveland and Greeley. OCR has helped thousands of patients reclaim healthy, active lifestyles through orthopaedic, spine, sports medicine, concussion and podiatry care. All of OCR's providers are board certified, have advanced training and take great pleasure in serving their patients.

The OCR Fort Collins Surgery & Recovery Center is equipped for same day surgeries but also major operations such as hip, knee, shoulder replacements and larger spine cases that require overnight stays. To accommodate the growing needs of Northern Colorado's continual growth, the OCR Loveland Surgery & Recovery Center will open Spring of 2019.

Orthopaedic & Spine Center of the Rockies is strongly committed to supporting the community. Partnering with local sports teams such as The Colorado Eagles and Colorado State University Athletics, OCR is proud to support professional, college and high school athletic teams with expert care.

The OCR staff also enjoys giving back to the community by sponsoring not-for-profit health agencies and initiatives, community disaster relief and response, kids' health programs and activities, schools and sports teams. Funds for all sponsorships and donations are provided by the OCR physicians and employees.

Along with sponsorships, OCR hosts several in-house events for health care professionals, athletic coaches and patients allowing OCR to contribute knowledge and expertise to Northern Colorado.

OCR's Annual Total Joint Surgery Walk celebrates the accomplishments of patients who have recently had hip, knee or ankle joint replacement surgery. The walk takes place on the City of Fort Collins trails and participants are served lunch at the OCR Fort Collins office.

The 11th Orthopaedics Symposium will take place on April 13, 2019, at the Embassy Suites Hotel and Conference Center. This conference is for primary care physicians and mid-levels, ER physicians and mid-levels, occupational medicine physicians and mid-levels, therapists (PT-OT), athletic trainers, registered nurses, chiropractors, and radiologic technologists.

"We strive to provide the very best medical and surgical care, based on patient involvement and education," said Michael A. Bergerson, CEO of OCR. "We plan to carry on this legacy, providing the region's best orthopaedic care for the next 50 years."
